an investment for your July dividends there should be three things considered: Safety, value and income. These three are no where so combined as in a real estate loan. In a well established community the safety of such an investment is unquestioned; its value is constantly increasing and the income sure.

Our Washington and Oregon farm loans afford all three in a degree not exceeded by any other section. Write us for applications, stating about mount you wish to invest.

to the Retreat from Brattleboro in one day. It occurred to him that this town was fortunate in having such cases taken off its hands and charged up as state wards rather than town charges. When the number of commitments from Brattleboro totaled 11 within a brief period the state's attorney conceived the scheme of looking into the matter to ascertain whether all of Brattleboro's pauper population was being railroaded to the Retreat as state charges.

Believing that the matter is one for the supervisors to investigate he has laid the matter before the board consisting of Dr. F. E. Steele of Montpelier, Dr. G. S. Foster of Putney and Dr. R. M. Pelton of Richford. The state's attorney will proceed in the matter under section 3717 which gives him right to investigate as to whether a person committed to either the

The headings of the tunnel, built to carry the waters of the Gunnison river through a mountain into the Yucompaking valley, met last week. The reciamation service men say that the lands in the valley which will now be watered are among the richest orrhard lands in the west. Hhey expect that thousands of families will establish homes there and that the cost of the irrigation system will be easily repaid. Evelyn Thaw testified last week that Harry Thaw had said to her, "I suppose I will have to kill you when I get out of here." This was in proceedings now under way looking toward Thaw's release. Mrs. Thaw said she testified as she did because of the treatment she has received at the hands of the Thaw family. She declined to express an opinion as to Thaw's sanity.

Herbert Latham, the French aviator, made a daring but unsuccessful attempt to cross the English channel in his monoplane Monday. He got away splendidly under perfect conditions, from the top of the chalk cliff at Sangatte and had covered over half the distance at an average height of five hundred feet when the motor slowed down and he was obliged to descend. The wings of the airship, however, kept the machine afloat and the monoplane, like a wounded bird, was stretched out on the water when the French torpedo-boat destroyer Harpon, which had kept abreast throughout the journey, came alongside and picked up the aviator. Latham was not wet and still sat on the saddle, which is located above the wings and behind the motor, calmly smoking a cigarette. He immediately announced that he was not discouraged by the failure and would try again as soon as the machine was repaired. The damage to the monoplane was slight, the principal injury being caused when it was being hauled aboard the torpedo-boat destroyer. The motor is intact. The watchers on both shores had an anxious hour after the machine was lost to view behind a thick veil of fog on the French side. The authorities at Dover reported that the machine had not been sighted and the apprehension was not allayed until the semiphore at Calais reported that the Harpon was returning with Mr. Latham, uninjured, aboard. On landing the aeronaut was given a frantic reception.

Hot Onions and Pneumonia.

Hot onions, according to a French physician, are said to be a sure cure for pneumonia. The remedy is as follows: Take six or ten onions, according to size, and chop fine; put in a large pan over a fire, then add the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar enough to make a thick paste. In the meantime stir it thoroughly, letting it simmer for five or ten minutes. Then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply to chest as hot as patient can bear. In about ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices, and in a few minutes the patient will be out of danger. This simple remedy has never failed to cure this too often fatal malady. Usually three or four applications will be sufficient.—London Tit-Bits.

Acquired by Government.

When did the United States begin the practice of forestry? Few persons can answer this question correctly. Most people are of the opinion that the beginning of forestry in this country was of very recent origin, and that the first step in that direction was taken among the mountains of the far west. Neither fact is correct.

While Washington was serving his first term as president of the United States, a recommendation came to him that the government ought to buy live oak islands on the coast of Georgia to make sure of a supply of ship timber for war vessels. The idea appears to have originated with Joshua Humphreys, whose official title was "Constructor of the United States Navy," although about the only navy then existing was made up of six ships on paper, and not one stick of timber to build them had yet been cut. The vessels were designed to fight the north African practes.

Five years after the recommendation was made congress appropriated money to reserving and increasing the numbers of the insect-eating birds are being distributed throughout the country. If every American who is intersted in the campaign of practical education at once, it is declared by entomological experts, there may yet be some hope of averting the moth plague which now threatens to sweep the continent.

Three main lines of work have been projected by the leaders in this movement on behalf of the country's agricultural in terests. Sentiment in favor of the protection of birds is to be crystallized, comprehensive and drastic laws to this end enacted, and every possible means used to attract birds and thus increase their number to compat the insect crop pests. number to combat the insect crop pests. Every state, county and town where proper protection of the insect-eating birds has not been provided or whose bird laws are not enforced will fall an easy prey to the costly ravages of the easy prey to the costiv ravages of the spreading moths, it is shown. Failure to take up an active campaign such as is proposed can only be undone in the face of the moth plague by years of hard labor and millions of dollars of the taxpayers money, it has been proved by the government and state authorities.

A gentleman of this city has recently received pamphlets from the Department of Agriculture on the raising of the large food bullfrog. It is the purpose of the gentleman shortly to start the culture of the frog on quite an extensive plan. It is also the intention of the gentleman to get a large collection of the best bullfrogs he can find and put them in a large marsh that is located near his place in Santa Rose County, fencing the marsh in such a manner that snakes cannot get into it. manner that snakes cannot get into It is thought by the gentleman that It is thought by the gentleman that he can thus raise a large number of healthy bullfrogs for the market and make a good profit out of the business.

"I have been living in Escambia and Santa Rosa counties for the last ten years," he said, "and have noticed the plentitude of bullfrogs that are in the fresh water bodies in both counties. The frogs grow to monstrous size and seem to thrive in this section of the country. I think that a large and better grade of frog can be raised with proper care and I think that the raising of the frog will make a comfortable

I wrote to the Department of Agri culture some months ago inquiring as to the method of raising the frog, and have received a pamphlet giving me full di-rections. My intention is to fence in the marsh that is on my place and start a frog farm in it. I shall get all the snakes out of the place and keep it as clean as possible, so the frogs will be healthy at all times. I shall have the

It seems to me that all a man has to have is a mudpuddle in his backyard and put some frogs in it, put a fence around it and feed the frogs. The climate is natural to them and they will mate is natural to them and they will thrive in spite of all efforts to exterminate them. With a little attention a large high grade frog can be raised."—Pensacola News.

Flying Ellet Family.

Other aerialists may have been seen and admired, but it is a freely acknowledged fact that these shows have a veritable monopoly of the real artist gymnast of
